INDUSTRY DRAWS SOME STUDENTS -- Budapest, Szabad Nep, 20 Sep 51

The number of students in Hungary's schools this year exceeds all previous levels. Students in the first grades of middle schools number 36,000, first-year university students 16,500, and approximately 6,000 students are beginning technical qualification courses. Sixty-eight percent of middle school students, and 57 percent of college and university students are from workers' and peasants' families.

This year, 190 million forints are being spent on the construction and outfitting of schools and universities, and 200 million forints for student purposes.

Although the importance of instruction and study is gaining increasing recognition, a certain number of students still drop out. The majority of students dropping out of school are entering industry due to the growing demand for manpower. Partly to blame are shortsighted enterprise directors, who persuade students to remain at work instead of returning to school at the end of the summer. Labor unions and workers' groups also invite students to enter industry without finishing school. Another factor is a certain lack of respect for learning among young people.

Jozsef Revai, Minister of People's Culture, opened a one-year residential school for culture-politics (Kulturpolitikai iskola) on Mount Szabadsag in Budapest on 1 October 1951. The school accommodates 92 students.

REGULATES NEW SPORT CLUBS -- Budapest, Nepszava, 14 Sep 51

The Council of Ministers has issued a decree on sport organizations which are suitable for the development of socialist physical culture and sport movements, as well as for mass sport activities. According to the decree, new sport organizations may not be founded without the permission of the OTSB (National Physical Culture and Sport Committee), which sanctions the by-laws of new sport clubs.

The basic organization of a national sport club is the sport circle, which may be founded in towns and producers' cooperatives. Jurisdiction over all sport establishments is exercised by the OTSB.
